That's Not So Many.

An English astronomer, after years of careful work, ventures the opinion that there are 64,184,757 stars. Now that is not so many say some Paris people, for they will make an affidavit that they saw more than that the first night they put on roller skates at the rink.

An Insincere Judge.

Politicians are curious kind of "critters." Now here comes Judge M. M. Redwine in a decision in the Morgan county Circuit Court and declares the dog law tax to be unconstitutional and void. This same Judge has probably forgotten himself, but a few of us poor newspaper devils haven't, that Judge Redwine was a member of the Legislature that passed this Croan dog tax law and that he was one of its heartiest supporters. Judge, you are insincere, "sure's you born."

Are They "Done" With It?

The New York Press, a Republican paper, says: "The American people are done with this system of unrestrained corporations depriving a whole nation of its rights and liberties while the corporate powers declare that their privileges are sacred as their protection in them by the constitution in indefensible. And if the corporations and their legal retainers can not see what every one else sees blazoned in the skies, the American people are also done arguing with them. They have only the answer of Napoleon to the stupid Archduke of Austria who, slave of worn-out formalities, could not comprehend the fact of the French Republic. 'France,' said Napoleon, just at the moment he was crushing the shell of Austrian pretensions under his irresistible heel, 'is like the sun; so much the worse for him who can not see it!'"

If the American people are really anxious to be "done with this system of unrestrained corporations depriving a whole nation of its rights and liberties" then they will remove from power the party which habitually derives its campaign fund from these same corporations and habitually legislates in their favor.

Make Him Toe the Mark.

Negro leaders in Washington are very much interested in the Japanese question. They say that if it should be demonstrated that citizens of other nations must be treated alike in this country the same rule ought to apply to American citizens in their own land. In that event the negro would want to know with what reason the school authorities in the District of Columbia prohibit negroes from attending school with white children. They say that if Mr. Roosevelt wins his Japanese case in San Francisco a negro case will be instituted in the District of Columbia. That's perfectly right Mr. Negro make him toe the mark, don't let him side-step you, he is one of you.

The Holiday Season.

The year 1906 is almost ended, yet none to quickly is the holiday season again with us. Every man, woman and child has looked forward to it with anticipations of pleasure. No one likes the grind and hurry of this life; all prefer good cheer and happiness. The Bourbon News hopes that every anticipation will be realized, and wishes all its readers a full measure of enjoyment.

The holiday season is not, however, without its cares and perplexities. Even in striving to make others happy one is confronted by limitations of various kinds. There is lack of time, there is need of money. But let it be remembered that the true measure of all effort is the kindly intention that prompts it. If this measure is applied, if all are properly appreciative happiness will be general, good cheer universal. The holiday season is a season of joy just in proportion to kindly effort and to appreciation of it. If this rule is applied, commercialism will be eradicated. The holiday season should be absolutely different from the rest of the year. We can make it so if we all try.

The Rights of Passengers.

The Interstate Commerce Commission recently ordered a railroad company to provide seating capacity in its trains to meet the demands of its passengers. In issuing this order the commission declared that the purchase of a ticket carried with it the right to a seat; that when a seat was not provided the railroad company was not meeting its obligation to the public as a common carrier. This order re-establishes another right of passengers.

The order of the Commission is in line with the laws of several states which distinctly specify that each ticket carries with it a seat. It emphasizes state laws, however, to the extent that passengers feel that they have more solid grounds on which to base their demands. The order issued, it rests with the public to see that it is complied with.

Senator Bailey's Case.

Senator Bailey, of Texas, is in trouble. In his professional capacity he acted as attorney for the Waters-Pierce Oil company, a Standard Oil creation. Afterwards he borrowed money from the concern and paid it back. While it is true that through his advice the Standard Oil company got a footing in Texas, and that because of his financial relations with the Waters-Pierce company he was able to accomplish some things for himself, the fact remains that he sold services only as any other lawyer would, and in every way conducted himself according to the ethics of his profession.

Senator Bailey admits all this, according to dispatches at hand, but denies various other allegations that have been made against him. Perhaps his admission and his denial may seem to conflict yet this is not to be wondered at. What is of vastly more importance is the question of honesty that has been raised, and this really ought to be settled in such a way as to do no injustice to anyone concerned. While it is a good sign that many people of Texas now rise in protest to Senator Bailey's re-election, believing as they do that he has betrayed his state to a giant monopoly, it is a vastly better sign that people are willing to base their conclusions on all the facts as they may be found.

Senator Bailey's case is unique. Many United States Senators have been guilty of acts and deeds much more to be condemned, without protest from their constituents. But Senator Bailey's case seems to have stirred up the state he represents from one end to the other. It is possible that Texans demand more of their public servants than the people of other states.

Appalling Record.

According to the Chicago Tribune's figures it is seen the record of 1906 is one of widespread destructiveness to human life. No account is kept of the loss of property in the premises, although that was immense, but only human lives destroyed have been noted. The figures given are as follows:

In January an earthquake killed 14 persons at Gonzano, Italy, and a tidal wave on the Columbian coast of South America swept away 2,500.

In February a hurricane visited the Society Islands, in the south Pacific ocean, and 1,000 perished.

In March a tornado swept through Mississippi and 21 were killed, and an earthquake in Formosa destroyed 2,000.

In April the Vesuvius erupted killed 2,000, a second earthquake at Formosa 109, the San Francisco 448, and a tornado in Texas 26.

In July there were two smaller disasters, a cloudburst at Ocapmo, Mex., which killed ten persons, and a water-spout at Lyons, France, which killed thirty-one.

There were terrible times in August, when 2,000 were victims of an earthquake in Valparaiso, and 12,000 from floods in Huann, China.

In September there was a long series of disasters. A landslide and storm in the Caucasus cost 255 lives, the typhoon at Hong Kong 10,000, a flood at Tepic, Mex., a hurricane at Pensacola and Mobile, 140, and a cyclone in southern Spain 60.

In October a hurricane off the coast of Florida, which started from Venezuela, skirting Honduras, Nicaragua, Salvador and Cuba, left 986 dead in its path.

Including the losses of life by lesser disasters of this kind, the record shows already that more than 50,000 persons have perished this year by earthquake, hurricane and other manifestations of nature's fury.

This does not include the frightful disasters resulting from railroad wrecks, conflagrations, catastrophes in mines and the like. The record in those occurrences is bad enough and the entire result is appalling.

J. J. CONNELLY.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address:

Why the Cake Was a Failure.

Mrs. Tom L. Johnson, discussing the other day the school of household science that she is helping to found in Cleveland, said:

"No Cleveland girl, after a course in our school, would ever make the mistake that a young bride made last Thanksgiving.

"This young bride, after serving to her husband a Thanksgiving dinner that was so-so, said, as the dessert of mince pie was brought on:

"Intended, dear, to have sponge cake, too, but it has been a total failure.

"How was that?" the husband asked in a disappointed tone, for he was fond of sponge cake.

"The druggist," she explained "sent the wrong kind of sponges."

Good News to Women.

Father William's Indian Tea, Nature's Remedy, is becoming the most popular Female Remedy in use.

Pale, Weak, Nervous, Delicate Women suffering from those weaknesses and diseases, peculiar to their sex, will find in Father William's Indian Tea a wonderful Tonic and Regulator. It quiets the Nerves, puts on flesh, gives strength and elasticity to the step, brightens the eyes, clears the complexion and makes you well and strong again. Tea or Tablets, 20 cents. For sale by W. T. Brooks.

Kentucky Hunters' Bad Luck.

Leaving the carcasses of his three horses and seventy hounds, floating in the current of White river, and glad to be alive himself, George H. Robertson, of Paducah, Ky., Saturday returned from the wilds of southern Arkansas where he has been on a hunt.

Nearly two months ago Robertson loaded his camp equipage on a steamer at Paducah and left for the hunting grounds, happy in the prospect of a season of sport.

When the boat landed down the Mississippi at the mouth of White river, Robertson journeyed back into the wilderness for sixty miles and nearly fifty miles from the nearest railroad. In the midst of the hunt rains began that flooded the entire southern country. Robertson's camp was pitched on a terrace above the swamp but in a few days it was surrounded by water. As the rain fell heavier and heavier and the creeks and rivers became broader, the little band of hunters constructed rude crafts and luckily had enough boards and nails to make one large enough to hold them and a few provisions.

Postmaster Robbed.

G. W. Fouts, postmaster of Riverton, La., nearly lost his life and was robbed of all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For 20 years I had chronic liver complaint, which led to such a severe case of jaundice that even my finger nails turned yellow when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitters; which cured me and have kept me well for eleven years." Sure cure for biliousness, neuralgia, weakness and all stomach, liver kidney and bladder derangements. A wonderful tonic. At Oberdorfer's drug store. 50 cents.

FOOS GAS AND GASOLINE ENGINES

Last longer and give better service than any engine on the market. Why? Because only the best material and workmanship that money can buy are used in their construction. They are the most accessible, simplest and easiest to operate of any engine sold today.

A few of the superior points are: The governor, with which you can change the speed while running. Economy of fuel, due to the construction of the valves and positive action of the governor. The igniter, which makes a spark one-half inch long: will start the engine on the first turn and is guaranteed not to foul. The balance weights on the crank shaft instead of on the fly wheels, which insure steady running and minimum of wear on the bearings. The lubricating system, and lots of others that we will tell you about if you will just give us a chance. We have samples on the floor and can give you a demonstration any time.

We also carry in stock a full line of Belle City and Ross Feed Cutters, the best of their kind. Kemp Manure Spreaders, Vehicles, Wagons, Implements, Seeds, Coal, Salt, etc. You need our goods and we need your money. Give us a call.

Bees Eat Paris Green.

Fourteen fine yearling bees and four sheep belonging to J. D. Gay, of Pine Grove, were killed Friday night from eating Paris Green. The poison had been put in a smoke house on Mr. Gay's farm and the cattle were attracted by the smell of salt.

Instead of eating the salt, they got into the Paris Green and when Mr. Gay went out on his farm Saturday morning he found the sheep and cattle dead. They strayed into the field in which the smoke house was located through the carelessness of a tenant who left the gates open. The lot was valued at $25 per head.

Store Open Every Night Until Christmas, but we recommend trading in the morning, the crowds are not so great.

A Word to the Public.

Store opens every night until Christmas but we recommend trading in the morning, the crowds are not so great.

WE VALUE THE CONFIDENCE OF THE PEOPLE AS THE MOST ESSENTIAL FACTOR TO SUCCESSFUL UP-TO-DATE MERCHANDISING, and endeavor to conduct our business on lines that merit it at all times. Our policy is straightforwardness, we tell the truth about our merchandise, never allow ourselves to be undersold on anything, we try to avoid errors and if we make a mistake willingly rectify it. OUR HOLIDAY BUSINESS TO DATE HAS EXCEEDED OUR MOST SANGUINE EXPECTATIONS, almost doubled that of any previous year, conclusively demonstrating the appreciation of the people of our efforts to please, and the reliance they place in our business methods.

Now there's just six days left for Christmas shopping. All that remains of our magnificent stock of must be disposed of in the next six days. The clearance shall be absolute. We've done some heroic price cutting. Not a single stock in the whole store carrying Holiday Goods has escaped the carnage.

TOYS — DOLLS, GAMES, BOOKS, FANCY GOODS, CHINA ARTWARES, FANCY BASKETS, ETC., anything you may want in the way of a practical Christmas Gift at a much lower price, quality considered, than in any other store in the city of Paris. Some lots are small and cannot last throughout the day the way they are priced. There are always advantages in first choice, especially on such occasions as this. Come Early. Stop in the morning, aisles are not so crowded, trading is more satisfactory in every way.

Be Careful.

In the use of Christmas greens, harvest specimens and other inflammable material, such as draperies, scenery, cotton to represent snow, and the like, especially in connection with electric and other lights, is very dangerous, it is impossible to make displays of that nature perfectly safe. So we warn all in making their decorations for Christmas to be careful, if every precaution is not taken your insurance policy is void, and then think of the probable loss of life.

COMPOSERS AS WITS

PECULIARITIES OF THE GREAT MASTERS OF MUSIC.

They Were Not, as a General Rule, Amiable Critics of Each Other. Comments That Were Usually Cautious and Frequently Savagely Severe.

Never surely was composer more witty than the master who gave us an immortal setting of "William Tell." Rossini's whimsicality extended even to his birthday. Having been born in leap year, on Feb. 23, he had a birthday only once in four years, and when he was seventy-two he facetiously invited his friends to celebrate his eighteenth birthday. Some of the best specimens of his wit were shown in connection with brother composers. "You know," he said one day, speaking to a friend, "you know what pretty dance tunes Auber has always written." Auber being as likely to write dance tunes as Rossini was to write a sermon. The maestro seldom went to the opera or to any place of amusement, but he could not resist the temptation of hearing one of Wagner's works. It was "Tannhauser." Afterward, when asked to give his opinion of the opera, he said, "It is too important and too elaborate a work to be judged after a single hearing; but, so far as I am concerned, I shall not give it a second."

Rossini's witticisms indeed bubbled forth at all times and under all circumstances. On one occasion a gentleman called upon him to enlist his aid in procuring for him an engagement at the opera. He was a drummer and had taken the precaution to bring his instrument. Rossini said he would hear him "play," and it was decided that he should show off in the overture to "Semiramide." The very first bar of the overture contains a tremolo for the drum, and when this had been performed the player remarked: "Now I have a rest of seventy-eight bars. These, of course, I will skip." This was too good a chance to be lost. "Oh, no," said the composer. "By all means count the seventy-eight bars. I particularly wish to hear those."

Some of these anecdotes of Rossini remind us that composers, as a rule, have not figured amiably as critics of each other. Handel swore that Gluck knew no more about counterpoint than his cook. Weber pronounced Beethoven a madman, and Haydn said of a brother musician that "he played the fiddle like a hog." Liszt was particularly severe upon fellow artists. Some one was once playing to him a composition he evidently did not care for. "What is that?" he asked. "It is Bennett's 'Maid of Orleans' sonata," was the reply. "Ah," said the virtuoso, "what a pity that the original manuscript did not meet with the same fate as Joan!" But perhaps better than this was the opinion of Wagner expressed by Offenbach. Wagner had just published his "Rienzi," and off went a copy to Offenbach, with a request that he would say what he thought of it. Now, Offenbach had previously read some of Wagner's poems and had made fun of them, a circumstance well known to Wagner. After three weeks the score of "Rienzi" was returned to its composer with a slip on which was written: "Dear Wagner, your music is trash. Stick to poetry." This of course enraged Wagner greatly, and some months later he was out with one of his celebrated brochures denouncing the Jews. It was a fine opportunity for revenge, Offenbach being an Israelite, and the brochure was in the hands of Offenbach in no time. Two days elapsed, and Wagner had the pamphlet back. When he opened it the front page he found written on the front page: "Dear Wagner, your brochure is rot. Stick to music."

Haydn was a great admirer of the fair sex, and some of his prettiest things were said about women. One specimen must suffice. The celebrated Mrs. Billington was a great friend of his, and Sir Joshua Reynolds had painted her portrait. Haydn went to see the picture when it was finished. "Yes," he said to the artist, "it is very good. But you painted Mrs. Billington listening to the angels, whereas the angels should be listening to her."

Berlioz, the eminent French composer, had a caustic wit. He could not endure Bach, and he used to call Handel "a big hog," a "musician of the stomach." For this he was paid out by Mendelssohn, who declared that after touching a score of Berlioz soap and water were necessary. Berlioz, however, had his musical hero, and that hero was Beethoven. Touch Beethoven irreverently and his ire was kindled. There is a certain passage for the double basses in one of the master's scores which was at one time believed to be almost impossible of execution. Now, Habeneck conducted a performance of this work in Paris and gave the passage in question to the cellos. Berlioz, who was present, met Habeneck soon after and asked him when he meant to give the passage as Beethoven intended it to be given. "Never as long as I live," said Habeneck. "Well, we'll wait," replied Berlioz. "Don't let it be long."

Speaking of Beethoven, that master's humor was rather of the grim kind, resembling more the satire of Carlyle than anything else. The composer's brother had a little property of his own and was very proud of it. One day he called on Beethoven and left a card inscribed "Johann Van Beethoven, Land Proprietor." Next day he had it returned to him, written on the back, "L. Van Beethoven, Brain Proprietor." —Chambers' Journal.

The Owl That Jarred the Washington Monument.

In one of the many glass cases in the Smithsonian institution at Washington is a stuffed owl. This particular owl is the one, in the words of the late President Hayes, "that jarred the Washington monument," and therein lies the story.

During Centennial year congress resolved to provide the necessary funds for the completion of the monument, which up to that time had been worked at only while the several smaller appropriations lasted. It was discovered, however, that the original foundation was likely to prove incapable of sustaining the enormous weight of marble necessary for carrying the shaft 550 feet above terra firma. A new foundation was therefore needed, and architects thought a solid concrete bed 100 feet square and nearly fourteen feet in thickness would accomplish the strengthening desired.

During the operation of replacing the old foundation it was considered expedient to provide means for noting carefully the slightest vibration of the walls, lest the monument might be in danger of collapsing. Accordingly a heavy weight was suspended by a stout thread from the apex to a pan of thick sirup located in the base, so that no chance drafts of air would be likely to sway the weight. An ingenious contrivance was so attached to the weight that the slightest vibration of the shaft would be faithfully recorded, and its insecurity would at once be an established fact.

One morning a few months after these careful precautions had been taken there was a great commotion among the workmen. A complete record of numerous perturbations and tremblings had been written on the index, showing conclusively that the mammoth obelisk had jarred, swayed and settled during the night. Scientific heads were dubiously shaken. After much persuasion one of the men finally consented to go to the top and examine into the cause. The astonishing report came into the midst of the anxious throng below that an owl in seeking shelter in the lofty tower had somehow managed to catch its wings in the thread and was still hanging there, suspended to the interior of the monument, and the innumerable flappings and struggles of his owlish had all been recorded by the index as testimony against the stability of plumb laid marble blocks and solid concrete.

"Dandy Dixie" Minstrels.

At the recent Old Kentucky "Home Comers" gathering at Louisville, Ky., great reverence was paid to the memory of Stephen C. Foster, author of "My Old Kentucky Home." The people of the State whose name his gift of song has immortalized, rendered fitting tribute to his memory and unveiled the model of a Foster statue that is to adorn the new State Capitol of Kentucky.

Thousands of children, headed by bands which continuously played Foster's music, marched to the hall, where the model of the statue which is to be erected by their contributions, was unveiled. Within the hall twenty thousand persons were crowded to honor Foster. They cheered every mention of this name, applauded to the echo the rendition of his music, and showed the descendants of Foster who were present both in word and deed a keen and full appreciation of what his genius had wrought for Kentucky.

It would tax the ability of the most accomplished mathematician to estimate how many times that week the music of "My Old Kentucky Home" was heard in Louisville. Delegation after delegation from abroad has trooped through the streets behind bands that have informed everybody within hearing "The Sun Shines Bright in My Old Kentucky Home." The orchestras in the hotels and cafes imparted the same intelligence every few minutes, and people sung and hummed it in the streets. This beautiful ballad as well as all the old levee plantation song, together with the airs of all national anthems, and the class songs of all the leading universities, will be rendered in the great show which the "Dandy Dixie Minstrels" will bring. Paris Grand, Friday, December 21.

Our Washington Letter.

BY EARL W. MAYO.

WASHINGTON, December 12.—Representative John Wesley Gaines wants more money for the hard-working members of Congress. In a bill introduced this week, he proposes that hereafter the salary paid each Senator and Representative be $87,500, instead of $5,000 the increase to become effective beginning with the Sixty-first Congress. It is not at all improbable that the legislative appropriation bill will contain some provision for just such an increase. A proportionate rise in salaries would allow the vice President and Speaker of the House each $12,000 a year instead of $8,000. Mr. Gaines looks the picture of health, and denies emphatically the report sent out from St. Louis that he underwent an operation in that city some time ago for appendicitis. He declares he was attending a banquet on the evening he was said to be submitting to the surgeon's knife, and he believes the correspondent must have been much befuddled as to mistake the banquet board for an operating table.

Kentuckians are besieging Justice Harlan of the United States Supreme Court, to permit the use of his name as the Republican candidate for Governor in that State in 1908. Justice Harlan so far has refused to make any statement in response to these importunities but it is understood among his close associates that he has no desire to quit the scholarly atmosphere of the highest tribunal in the land to enter the turmoil of politics.

Never before in America has such a gathering been held to consider the improvement of the waterways of the country than is being held this week. In numbers and enthusiasm it is a remarkable assemblage, and practically every State in the Union is represented. A number of governors have headed delegations, among these being Governor Chamberlain, of Oregon, and Governor Blanchard, of Louisiana, and prominent men in all walks of life have put aside private and public affairs to lend their voice and influence toward launching a national campaign for better waterways as a means of insuring increased transportation for the growing commerce, and a consequent maintenance of prosperity. The realization that developed waterways will prove a mighty factor in lowering all freight rates, has opened the eyes of every section to the importance of the crusade. It is regarded now as practically certain that Congress will pass a rivers and harbors appropriation bill of at least $50,000,000, and there even is a reasonable expectation that the bill will carry more than this sum.

If the report of the chief of the Bureau of Loans and Currency is not twisted, there is a probability that a large number of United States citizens will be hit by the Sheppard bill, should it become law. According to that official's report the amount of money in circulation on December 1 was $32,869,074,255, which is a gain of $2,000,000 in the last month, and of about $7,000,000 in the last year. This hoists the per capita circulation up to $33.66, a point never before reached in the history of the United States. No wonder Uncle Sam wishes to garner a little of the increased shekels for himself through the medium of an income bill.

A Trite Saying.

It is a trite saying that no man is stronger than his stomach. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body and thus cures both liver and kidney troubles. If you take this natural blood purifier and tonic, you will assist your system in manufacturing each day a pint of rich, red blood, that is invigorating to the brain and nerves. The weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people suffer from, is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin and the feelings "blue." Dr. Pierce's "Discovery" cures all blood humors as well as being a tonic that makes one vigorous, strong and forceful. It is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that contains neither alcohol nor harmful habit-forming drugs, and the only one, every ingredient of which has the professional endorsement of the leading medical writers of this country. Some of these endorsements are published in a little book of extracts from standard medical works and will be sent to any address free, on receipt of request therefor by letter or postal card, addressed to Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. It tells what Dr. Pierce's medicines are made of. The "Words of Praise" for the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, by leaders in all the several schools of medical practice, and recommending them for the cure of the diseases for which the "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised, should have far more weight with the sick and afflicted than any amount of the so-called "testimonials" so conspicuously flaunted before the public by those who are afraid to list the ingredients of which their medicines are composed be known. Bear in mind that the "Golden Medical Discovery" has the badge of honesty on every bottle wrapper, in a full list of its ingredients.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, invigorate the liver and regulate stomach and bowels.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, on paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 51 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Mrs. Davis' Reasons.

Mrs. Margaret Howell Jefferson Davis Hayes, the only surviving daughter of the late Mrs. Jefferson Davis, has given out a statement explaining the letter of her mother which created such a sensation at the recent annual meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The full text of Mrs. Jefferson Davis' letter was suppressed from publication. It gives Mrs. Davis' reasons for having made her home in the North after the war and criticized Mississippi, the State of Jefferson Davis' residence.

Mrs. Hays says her mother's letter was written some years ago with the intention that it should be read after her death and was prompted by desire to justify her actions in the eyes of the Southern people whom she loved so well.

In it the numerous criticisms as to her choice of New York as a residence are answered. At the time Mrs. Davis was subjected to malaria and could not keep her health in Mississippi and furthermore in New York she was able to supplement her limited income by writing newspaper articles.

Mississippians criticized Mrs. Davis for selecting Richmond as the burial place of her husband instead of his home state, but Mrs. Davis believed it fitting that he should be laid to rest in the Confederate Capital. Mrs. Davis in her letter replied sharply to this criticism but, according to her daughter, the animosities were smoothed out some time before her death. Mrs. Davis had written to the recipient of the letter desiring it to be destroyed and at the time of her death believed it no longer existed.

CONSUMPTION'S WARNING

Inside facts soon become evident in outside symptoms.—Dr. G. G. GREEN.

The aid of scientific inventions is needed to determine whether your lungs are affected. The first symptoms can be readily noted by anyone of average intelligence.

There is no disease known that gives so many plain warnings of its approach as consumption, and no serious disease that can be so quickly reached and checked, if the medicine used is Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which is made to cure consumption.

It is in the early stages that German Syrup should be taken, when warnings are given in the cough that won't quit, the congestion of the bronchial tubes and the gradual weakening of the lungs, accompanied by frequent expectoration.

But no matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has already attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble.

Huge Task.

It was a huge task to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Iowa, who Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone, I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach." Guaranteed by Oberdorfer, the druggist. Price 50c.
